

SPIE Students Slack Workspace: What's in it for you?

Check out the Slack channels available at your fingertips.

Welcome

The first channel people see when they arrive in the workspace. Contains a message on the intention of the space, how to get started, and group rules.

1

News

This channel will inform you of upcoming SPIE events, grant and scholarship opportunities, and deadlines. You will want your notifications on for this one!

2

Chapters

SPIE Student Chapter-dedicated space for discussion, collaboration, and networking. Brainstorm ways chapters can work together on regional events, or perhaps ask for suggestions on challenges your group is facing.

3

Community

Is your university, student chapter or regional group hosting an event or interested in sharing a useful resource? From technical talks to equity and diversity workshops, let the group know what's happening in the community.

4

Mentorship

Find your mentorship resources and connections here by posting a specific question for an expert or connect with SPIE networks for potential longer-term mentors. Not sure if you should go for your PhD? Need help deciding on which program to choose? Ask your questions here!

5

Resources

This channel contains links to mission-critical resources for your career advancement.

6

Random

This channel is for anything fun to uplift the community. It's a place for pet photos, celebrating recent accomplishments, spur-of-the-moment ideas, and funny GIFs. The world is your oyster!

7